

Report: Webinar on Financial Derivatives Market in India During COVID-19

Date: 19th September 2020

Organizer: Department of Management Studies

Overview:

The Department of Management Studies successfully organized a webinar on the topic of "Financial Derivatives Market in India During COVID-19" on 19th September 2020. The webinar attracted a diverse audience of 200 participants, including undergraduate and postgraduate students, research scholars, faculties, and industrialists. The session aimed to provide insights into the dynamics of the financial derivatives market amidst the challenges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic.

Key Highlights:

Participant Diversity: The webinar witnessed active participation from various segments of the academic and industrial community, ensuring a comprehensive discussion on the subject matter.

Interactive Session: The webinar featured an interactive format, allowing participants to engage with the speakers through question and answer sessions. This interactive approach facilitated a deeper understanding of the intricacies of the financial derivatives market.

Effective Handling of Queries: The speakers demonstrated proficiency in addressing the doubts and queries raised by the participants. Their adept handling of questions contributed to the overall satisfaction of the attendees.

Elaboration on Financial Derivatives: The session provided an elaborate overview of financial derivatives and elucidated their differences from the capital market. Through insightful discussions, participants gained a nuanced understanding of derivative instruments and their role in risk management and speculation.

Opportunities During COVID-19: Despite the challenges posed by the pandemic, the webinar emphasized the potential opportunities presented by the derivative market during the COVID-19 timeframe. The speakers highlighted this period as an opportune moment for investment in derivatives, leveraging market dynamics for potential gains.

Distribution of E-certificates: Following the conclusion of the webinar, electronic certificates (E-certificates) were issued to all participants as a token of recognition for their active involvement and contribution to the event. This initiative underscores the organizers' commitment to acknowledging and appreciating the participants' engagement in the webinar.

Conclusion

In conclusion, the webinar on "Financial Derivatives Market in India During COVID-19" organized by the Department of Management Studies proved to be a valuable platform for knowledge exchange and insights into the financial landscape amidst unprecedented times. The interactive nature of the session, coupled with expert-led discussions, contributed to a fruitful learning experience for all participants.

Recommendations:

Based on the success of this webinar, it is recommended that similar sessions be organized periodically to keep participants abreast of the latest developments in the financial markets and enhance their understanding of derivative instruments.